Excerpt: .the sea, it was considered best to land in front of the houses of the Macuas,1 for there the water was smoothest, and all could land with least trouble. When this agreement had been arrived at, the Marshal declared he suspected, among so many captains and young men whom the fleet contained, there might be some one who imagined he would acquire honour in being the first to set foot on land before he himself should do so, but he would swear to such an one, were he a captain or any one in his fleet, he would order his head to be struck off, but if such an one should be of the people of India and the CaptainGeneral would not give a similar order, he would never speak to him again; and he said he would desire them earnestly not to disembark...
