It interests us in village legends, family traditions, and in the memories of old people often wonderfully vivid and accurate. It introduces us to our forefathers, hands us a chair at their fireside, and makes us familiar in their households. And soon we begin to love our stern old ancestors. We study them, their opinions, their hatred of tyranny, those old fellows who called no man master. We who have Hildreth ancestors have learned of their persistent determination for justice, and of their unyielding courage and honesty. And so we seek to know more of them. The Hildreth Family Association has in its possession a mass of genealogical and historical data regarding the Hildreths of America. The largest single collection is that by Mr. Henry Orin Hildreth of...
