Excerpt: . Secondly, Because observing the faculties of the mind, how they operate about simple ideas, which are usually, in most men s minds, much more clear, precise, and distinct than complex ones, we may the better examine and learn how the mind abstracts, denominates, compares and exercises its other operations about those which are complex, wherein we are much more liable to mistake. Thirdly, Because these very operations of the mind about ideas, received from sensation, are themselves, when reflected on, another set of ideas, derived from that other source of our knowledge which I call reflection, and therefore fit to be considered in this place after the simple ideas of sensation. Of compounding, comparing, abstracting, c. I have but just spoken, having occasion to treat of them more at large in other places. 15. These are the beginnings of human knowledge. And thus...
