Under these sections of the Code, whoever has a case in any court. may dismiss it before trial without any leave or order, and without notice to the opposite party; and if done in term time, it makes no difference that the judge presiding is disqualified to try it. When dismissal is solely the act of the party, and may take place as well in vacation as in term, the constitution of the court, at the time the party does the act, is immaterial. As there is no occasion for judicial action, it matters not that the judge on the bench has once been of counsel in the cause. 2. 3. In dismissing a bill, however, the complainant is to prejudice no right of the defendant. If the defendant has answered, making discovery called for, or discovery not waived, but confining...
